

Press Advantage Uncovers Critical AI Visibility Gap Affecting Nine Out of Ten Brands

June 19, 2026

Las Vegas, NV - June 19, 2026 -

Press Advantage, a leading press release distribution service, has identified a significant visibility challenge facing businesses in the age of artificial intelligence. The company's analysis reveals that approximately 90 percent of brands remain completely absent from AI-generated responses that consumers increasingly rely on for purchasing decisions.

The findings highlight a critical disconnect between traditional marketing investments and the emerging channels that now shape consumer behavior. As AI platforms become primary sources for product recommendations and business information, companies that lack representation in these systems risk losing market share to more digitally visible competitors.

Press Advantage discovered this gap through extensive analysis of AI response patterns across multiple industries. The research examined how artificial intelligence systems select and present business information when responding to consumer queries. The results showed that most brands, despite substantial investments in conventional marketing channels, have minimal or no presence in AI-generated content.

"Businesses are pouring resources into traditional marketing while overlooking the channel that increasingly drives customer decisions," said Jeremy Noetzelman, spokesperson for Press Advantage. "AI platforms are fundamentally changing how consumers discover and evaluate products and services. Companies that fail to establish their presence in these systems are essentially invisible to a growing segment of their target market."

The visibility gap stems from how AI systems gather and prioritize information. These platforms typically draw from authoritative news sources, verified business profiles, and frequently updated content across multiple trusted outlets. Traditional advertising and single-channel marketing strategies often fail to meet these criteria, leaving businesses underrepresented in AI responses.

Press Advantage has developed systematic approaches to help businesses establish and maintain visibility across AI platforms. The company's methodology focuses on creating newsworthy content distributed through recognized media channels, ensuring businesses appear in the sources AI systems reference most frequently.

The implications extend beyond simple brand awareness. As consumers increasingly trust AI recommendations for everything from local services to major purchases, absence from these platforms translates directly to lost revenue opportunities. Early adopters who establish strong AI visibility now position themselves advantageously as this technology becomes more prevalent.

"The window for establishing AI visibility advantage is closing rapidly," Noetzelman added. "Companies that act now can secure prominent positioning before their competitors recognize the importance of this channel. Those who wait may find themselves playing catch-up in an increasingly crowded digital landscape."

The shift toward AI-influenced purchasing decisions represents one of the most significant changes in consumer behavior since the rise of search engines. Industry analysts predict that within two years, the majority of purchase research will involve AI assistance in some form.

For businesses seeking to enhance their AI visibility, Press Advantage on Facebook provides ongoing insights and strategies for navigating this evolving landscape. The company continues to refine its approach based on emerging AI technologies and changing consumer patterns.
